

Frankincense, Cardamom, Cocoa, and Butter

Description

This spray can be used as an aromatherapy or as a spray that goes directly on the skin before applying body oil or lotions. The mix of butter and frankincense allows the spray to sink deeply into the body to hydrate and improve the overall feel and look of your skin.

Frankincense is cultivated from shrubs grown in various regions of the world, the resin and essential oil of frankincense are commonly used in religious ceremonies as a link to the Divine. It is also used in Chinese medicine as an herb to circulate the blood. The movement of blood is how fresh oxygen reaches our cells, making it an excellent choice for the skin.

Date Created

April 6, 2026

Author

rose-and-remed-admin